Lendlease selected as design and construction partner

The new CIT Woden Campus and precinct will bring modern learning facilities, a safer public transport interchange, improved active travel and vibrant public spaces to Woden.

The project has marked a major step forward in delivery, with Lendlease awarded the contract to design and construct the new campus building, youth foyer and surrounding connections, facilities and public spaces. Lendlease will also take forward the design and construction of Woden's new public transport interchange.

Having one contractor design and deliver these key project features will ensure consistency and connectivity throughout the precinct as a whole, as we work towards delivering the high standard of amenity the Woden community is looking for.

Lendlease will also help achieve the ambitious sustainability targets for the project. Together we will seek to attain a 6-star Greenstar building rating through the use of more sustainable building materials. This includes having a timber super-structure, using green concrete and providing all-electric systems, electric vehicle chargers and internal gardens.

A message from the Minister for Transport

Thank you for your continued patience as construction of the new Woden transport interchange and light rail stop continues. The next milestone in the months ahead will be the opening of new bus layovers and intersection upgrades, which will then enable Launceston Street to be re-opened to general traffic.

Now Lendlease has been appointed as a delivery partner for the CIT Woden project, they are developing the design for the new campus.

We will be consulting with the community on these more detailed designs as they progress and I encourage you to have your say on this important project for Woden's future.

Chris Steel MLA

When complete, the new CIT Campus and precinct will be a place that welcomes students, commuters, Woden residents and visitors to the area - whether to study, use public transport, access local shops and services or meet up with others in new public plazas and green spaces.

What does this project include?

A new purpose-built CIT campus

A new light rail ready public transport interchange, with more bus stops and passenger-friendly shelters

New bus layovers and driver facilities to support the new interchange

Better pedestrian and active travel connections

An integrated youth foyer, with up to 20 independent units and communal living spaces

Ground level retail and meeting spaces

New public places, facilities and green spaces, including public toilets and secure bike storage.

A new pedestrian boulevard linking the interchange to Woden Town Square

A new local shared zone between Bowes and Bradley streets

Your feedback so far

To help ensure the new CIT Campus precinct delivers public spaces and facilities that bring vibrancy and connection to the town centre, we've been asking for your views on this project. Generally, community input has focussed on the following four key themes:

1. Protection from the elements
2. Green space and landscaping
3. Accessibility, connection and vibrancy
4. Safety and lighting.

Most recently we asked for further input on public spaces, active travel, wayfinding, safety and what you want to see included in a revitalised Woden Town Centre.

We are implementing the outcomes from this and other consultations and delivering new project features you told us you'd like to see. These include:

- > more shelter linking the CIT Campus to public transport interchange
- > a pedestrian boulevard to Woden Town Square
- > a new Bowes and Bradley Street local shared zone
- > secure bike storage and lockup
- > electric vehicle charging
- > public toilets
- > new green spaces and more trees.

All the community input gathered to date is being used by the project planners, architects and engineers.

Have your say in 2022

Throughout the remainder of 2022, we will be progressing design concepts and seeking community input to feed directly into the next stage of design work and before the DA is submitted later this year.

There will be opportunities in the coming months to learn more and input into design, public spaces and artwork.

The next opportunity to find out more on the latest designs will be at an online information session from 6pm on Tuesday 23 August 2022 with the precinct team and Lendlease. RSVP to citcampuswoden@act.gov.au

The project designs will be available online from that day at yoursayconversations.act.gov.au/cit-campus-woden

Construction on the ground

Early works are now well underway in the Woden Town Centre. Upgrades to roads and intersections are continuing and new bus driver layover areas and facilities are under construction.

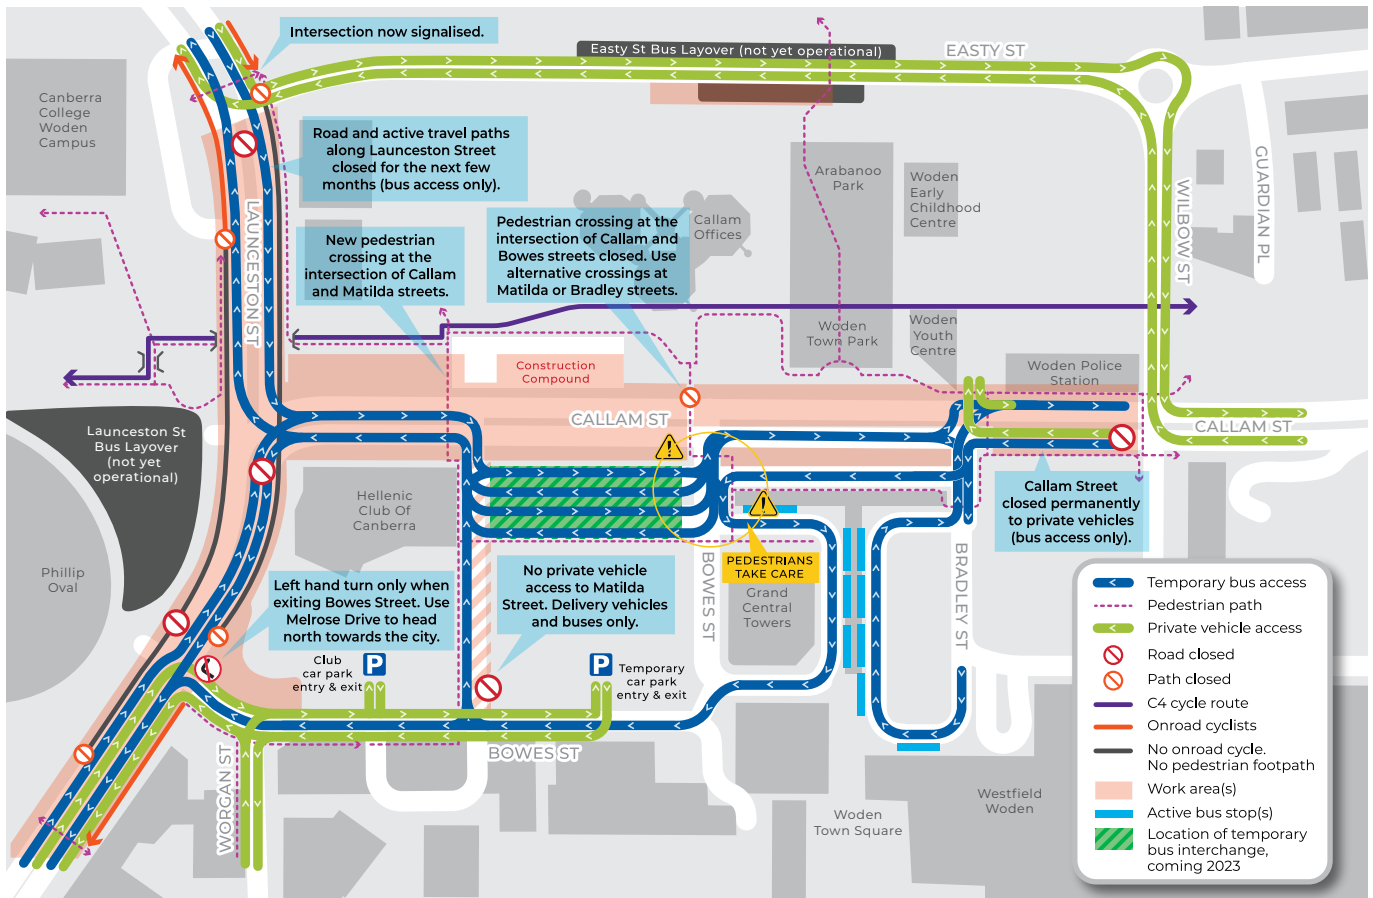

From now until October, construction works will focus on completing the utilities, verge and road works required to support the two new local bus layover areas (located adjacent to Phillip Oval and along Easty Street) as well as the necessary local road and intersection upgrades. Site investigations are also underway to gather data ahead of the main works construction commencing next year.

A reminder that the section of Callam Street between Matilda and Bradley streets is now closed permanently to private vehicles, and a section of Launceston Street is closed temporarily.

Temporary interchange coming in 2023

Planning has started and early works will soon commence on a temporary bus interchange to be located within a section of the Matilda Street carpark. This temporary interchange allows for the separation of buses and passengers from the construction zone for improved safety. More information about this new temporary interchange, bus movements and services will be provided later in the year.
